RAHS Day Lecture – *My Grandfather's Clock: Four Centuries of a British-Australian Family

Wednesday 6 September 2023, 1pm – 2pm online via Zoom. Cost: Free

A great-aunt's bequest – a 200-year-old grandfather clock – sends historian Graeme Davison on a journey deep into his father's family's past. From their tribal homeland in the Scottish Borders, he follows them to the garrison town of Carlisle, from industrial Birmingham to Edwardian Australia, and from the Great War to his own suburban childhood. This is the story of an ordinary family's journey from frontier warfare and dispossession through economic turmoil and emigration to modest prosperity. At each step, we are led to reflect on the puzzles of personal identity and the mystery of time. My Grandfather's Clock is a moving testament to the power of family history to illuminate the present.

About the speaker: Graeme Davison is Emeritus Sir John Monash Professor of History at Monash University. He has written widely on Australian history, and his publications include The Rise and Fall of Marvellous Melbourne, The Unforgiving Minute: How Australia Learned to Tell the Time, Car Wars: How the Car Won Our Hearts and Conquered our Cities, City Dreamers: The Urban Imagination in Australia and, as editor, The Oxford Companion to Australian History. His previous family history, Lost Relations: Fortunes of My Family in Australia's Golden Age, won a Judges' Special Prize in the Victorian Community History Awards.

RAHS Special Lecture – *Garden Design Using Australian Native Plants: A History

Wednesday 20 September 2023, 1pm – 2pm online via Zoom. Cost: Free

Landscape historian Stuart Read will talk on the history of Australian garden design using native plants, including waves of fashions (it didn't just start in the 1960s), players who were influential, and examples of gardens that remain so. You might be surprised how early and how widely natives were used. He'll delve into matters of fashion, treatment and shrinking gardens.

About the speaker: Stuart Read won a Pratt Foundation / International Specialised Skills Institute overseas fellowship, travelling to Spain in 2005 to study change management in gardens. He has long been involved with the Australian Garden History Society. Trained in horticulture and landscape architecture in New Zealand, he has worked since 1991 on Australian world, national and NSW heritage.

RAHS Day Lecture – *The 'Girls' Who Made Australia Laugh

Wednesday 4 October 2023, 1pm – 2pm online via Zoom. Cost: Free

Hundreds of Australian women graced the popular stage in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Despite the racism, sexism and other cruelties of vaudeville, it gave them space in which to live unusually public lives, and sometimes to test conventional ideas about how women should behave. Their stories speak to the treatment of women in earlier times. But they also show what is lost to our culture and our history when imported entertainments are permitted to overwhelm local artists and their work.

About the speaker: A former documentary filmmaker, television producer and chief executive of Film Australia, Sharon Connolly has been involved in making many landmark history programs since her first film, Red Matildas. In her first book, My Giddy Aunt and her sister comedians, she once more writes some remarkable yet uncelebrated women back into the stories of Australia.

RAHS New Members' Evening – *Scandals From Our Past

This workshop will guide you through discovering, collecting, and preserving the invaluable stories and experiences of your family's history and heritage. Our speakers will share their knowledge, techniques, and practical tips to help you embark on a fulfilling journey of preserving your family's legacy.

There will be tips on the following:

- Conducting meaningful interviews with your family members.
- Methods and mediums for documenting and preserving your family memories.
- Cataloguing your collected materials, whether physical or digital, to create a cohesive family archive.
- Understanding the importance of preserving intangible aspects of your family's culture, such as traditions, recipes, music, and language.

About the speakers:

Pauline Curby is a professional historian who has undertaken consultancies in oral history, environmental history and heritage, as well as writing commissioned histories. Her publications include Seven Miles from Sydney: A history of Manly and Randwick. Pauline won the 2010 NSW Premier's Award (Regional and Community History) and received the NSW History Fellowship in 2011. Pauline's oral history consultancies include: 'Telling it as it was' oral history project (2006–2017) – Sutherland Shire; Recording Ryde's Oral History Project (1997–1999); Australian Customs Service Oral History Project (2001–2002); 'A career in the Australian shipping industry' (2004). Pauline is President of the Sutherland Shire Historical Society.

Heather Garnsey joined the staff of the Society of Australian Genealogists (SAG) in 1984 and was its Executive Officer from 1988 until her retirement at the end of February 2020. Heather is an Honorary Member and Fellow of the Society of Australian Genealogists, an Honorary Fellow of the Heraldry and Genealogy Society of Canberra and was the joint recipient of the AFFHO Award for Meritorious Service to Family History in 2015. She holds a Masters degree in English History and SAG's Diploma in Family Historical Studies. In her retirement, she is enjoying having time to spend on her own family history research.

Christine Yeats is an archivist, historical researcher and active supporter of local historical societies. Her research interests include the history of the Romani (Gypsies) in nineteenth-century Australia and attempts to introduce a silk industry into the Australian colonies. Christine has undertaken a range of consultancy projects including significance assessments, biographical and local history research. She is President of the Federation of Australian Historical Societies, Senior Vice-President of the RAHS and a member of the Professional Historians Association (NSW & ACT). Her recent publication is Handy Guide: Convict Records of NSW: The Human Stories of the Transportation System (2021).

Western Sydney Regional Seminar – *Unveiling the Untold: Crafting Compelling Local Histories
Saturday 18 November 2023, 10am – 3pm at the Western Sydney Records Centre. Cost: $20.

Are you eager to dive into the fascinating world of local history research? Do you want to uncover untold stories and shed light on the past of your community? If so, then join us for this seminar on researching and writing compelling local histories.

In this seminar, we will explore the essential techniques and methodologies for conducting thorough and captivating research into your local area's history. We will guide you through the process of unearthing hidden treasures, gathering reliable information, and piecing together a narrative that will captivate readers and preserve the heritage of your community.

During the seminar, you will have the opportunity to learn from experienced historians, archivists, and researchers who have honed their skills in uncovering the secrets of the past.

RAHS Day Lecture – *The Convict Orphans of Van Diemen's Land
Wednesday 6 December 2023, 1pm – 2pm online via Zoom. Cost: Free

One of the largest convict establishments in Van Diemen's Land housed children. Between 1828 and 1879 some 6,000 children passed through the Orphan Schools, most 'orphaned' not by the death of their parents but by the convict system. They were convict orphans. Unless they were retrieved by their mothers or by another family member before they were about 12 years old, they left the Orphan Schools as indentured 'apprentices'. During the final two decades of the orphanage, almost a thousand children were sent out as unpaid workers under conditions like those of assigned convicts. Once they turned 18 and were free to leave the colony, many sailed across Bass Strait to make new lives for themselves elsewhere in Australia and New Zealand. Only in recent years have their descendants begun to uncover the stories of these children who concealed from their families the stigma of growing up a 'convict orphan'.

About the speaker: Lucy Frost is Emerita Professor of English at the University of Tasmania. She has long been interested in the experiences of women and children in colonial Australia, beginning with her first book, No Place for a Nervous Lady: Voices from the Australian Bush. Since moving from Melbourne to Hobart in 1997, her research has focused on the experiences of convict women and their children. During her years as a director of the Cascades Female Factory Historic Site, she co-founded the organisation thriving today as the Female Convicts Research Centre, of which she was the founding president. At present, she is Chair of Digital History Tasmania, dedicated to preserving Tasmania's historical records and heritage and promoting access.
